“Turn the Corner” is a multi-member Irish band, co-founded by Michael and Caroline Kilbane in 1996. The band specializes in Irish Traditional Music, Song and Dance and is the resident band for The Cleveland Ceili Club. All the band members are heavily influenced by the great bands of the seventies and eighties such as Planxty, The Bothy Band, De Danann, Altan, and the Chieftains. The band performs locally at concerts, festivals, libraries, weddings and parties as well as ceilis.

Caroline and Michael Kilbane have been playing Irish traditional music together since they met in Cork, Ireland in 1981. They moved to Cleveland in 1993 and released their CD “No Strings Attached” in 1996. Michael plays the uilleann pipes, tin whistle, concertina and button accordion. Caroline plays the concert flute and tin whistle.

For the CanalWay Coffee House March concert Michael and Caroline are joined by Patrick Kilbane on fiddle, Kathie Stewart on concert flute, Kevin Burke on tin whistle and bodhran, Caroline Taylor on keyboards and Shelli Sharp on vocals.
